ENGLISH GIRL WRITES OF LIFE IN LONDON

The following excerpt from a letter recently received by Miss Alzena Lord from a girl correspondent in London gives an idea of the actual conditions in the war-bombed city and the attitude of residents toward conditions. The writer is now working instead of attending school, as evidently no schools are in session there now. It is interesting to note the young lady's acceptance of surrounding destruction and the apparent intention to carry on.

"Your letter, arrived this morning after I had given up hope of it ever reaching me. Although we must expect delay it did seem an extra long time coming this time, but next time it will probably be longer still. I shall always answer your letters when I receive them as they are so interesting, and I love writing to you; but if at any time you do not hear from me it will be that they have been either sunk or bombed on the way.

"We have been having a terrible time here and I often think of you with envy in your lovely little town so peaceful and happy. I live outside the actual city of London but in rather a dangerous area. You see Clapham Junction is about ten minutes walk away (the sirens have just gone so will carry on later). (1 hour later). As I said before Clapham Junction, the biggest railway junction in the world, is about 10 minutes walk away from us, also we have three big power stations very near and an armament factory also quite near us so we are quite a good target for the bombers.

"I will try to give you some idea of how we live now bombing has started.

"Every evening an air-raid starts at approximately 8.30 p. m. and carries on all night until 6 a. m. the next morning. We are very lucky because we live opposite the Swimming Baths and they have a really good shelter which holds about 50 people. At night of course the staff of the Baths are at home and so the Superintendent, his wife and small son and our family have it to ourselves. We have laid wooden boards down about one foot from the floor and we take cushions and blankets over and make ourselves as comfortable as possible. I am able to sleep quite well now; it is surprising what you can do when necessity arises.

"We have good air-raid shelters at work which is a blessing as Fulham (the borough where I work) has been very heavily bombed. Every morning I have to take a different route to work as so many roads are blocked because of bombed houses or time-bombs. Time-bombs take about 1-3 days to explode and one just has to wait helplessly for it to go off while everybody who lives in the immediate vicinity have to leave their homes just as they stand and live somewhere else until the bomb has exploded.

"Every evening at 7.30 p. m. I change into a pair of navy blue slacks, a thick wool jumper, woolen socks and a warm pair of slippers. These are the most comfortable clothes to wear in a night raid.

"The most terrifying experience I have ever known happened last Saturday. The sirens went off rather earlier than usual and Mother, Dad, my little cousin Marion who is staying with us and I were just leaving my Grany's. We started to run to our shelter which was 3 minutes walk away when a screaming bomb fell two roads from us. We had no time to think when someone shouted 'lie down' we immediately fell flat on our faces on the pavement as the bomb crashed down. I thought that my last hour had really come, it sounds funny now but I was so terrified I

FIRST ACCIDENT ON GOULD JOB THIS MORNING

Joseph Gannon, employed as bricklayer by F. W. Cunningham & Son of Portland on the Gould Academy field house, suffered a painful scalp wound this Thursday morning when a brick from a wall above fell and hit him. This is the first accident on this work which has been underway three months.

CONSTRUCTION:

Rapid progress is now being made at the Gould Academy field house, where operations started about July 10. The steel work is now keeping pace with the brick work, and the east wing, 104 feet long parallel to Church street is now closed. Erection of the baseball cage will begin next Monday. The Bethel Theater is fast assuming a finished appearance on the outside. The auditorium has been covered with white asbestos shingles and the front of the building is now being encased with Colonial brick tapestry.

DESTRUCTION:

An elm tree was removed the first of the week in the yard of the Central Service Station. Workmen have started tearing down the building to make room for a completely modern structure.

Tree lovers regret the cutting of the two large elms on the grounds of Mrs. W. R. Chapman facing the Common. The work of taking these beautiful trees down started Wednesday morning. Removal of the trees necessitates the relocation of guy wires holding the telephone poles and cable of the Main Street line.

could think of nothing else. To add to our terror the bomb dropped was a screaming one and sounded as though it was coming straight to me.

"I have just read my letter through. I am afraid it is all about bombing but really we spend nearly all our time in shelters nowadays. There are no theatres open and one is too scared to go to a cinema."

GOULD-WILTON GAME FRIDAY

On Friday afternoon at 2 P. M. Gould Academy will play host to the Wilton Academy football team. The team is faced with a record to uphold in this encounter, as to date, no Gould team has yet been defeated by a Wilton Academy team. The year Gould started football Wilton was held to a scoreless tie and since that time the local eleven has made a clean sweep of all games played between the two teams.

Gould has lost the last three games by one touch down margin, and will have their hands full upholding their record over the invaders. Wilton always presents a good team and the local school is expecting another tough battle on Friday.

20-YEAR MEMBERS TO BE RECOGNIZED AT MEETING OF OXFORD FARM BUREAU

Recognition of members who have belonged to the Oxford County Farm Bureau for 20 consecutive years is to be one of the features on the program for the annual meeting of that organization on Wednesday, October 30. The meeting is to be held in the Association Hall at South Paris and will start at 10:00 o'clock.

Recognition pins will be presented to the twenty-year members by Wilson Conant, Buckfield, who was the first county Farm Bureau resident. Following these presentations, Raymond H. Lovejoy, Sanford, who was county agent when the Farm Bureau in Oxford County was organized, will address the meeting.

The main speaker of the day is to be Miss Mary Sue Wigley of Dawson, Ala. The title of her address is to be "Home-made Character and Citizenship." Miss Wigley is in Maine to speak at the annual meeting of eleven county Farm Bureaus at the request of many people who heard her at Farm and Home Week at Orono last March.

Following is the order of events on the day's program:

Inspection of exhibits.
Meeting called to order by President Edmund C. Smith.
Secretary's report by Mrs. Cleora Adams.
Treasurer's report, Lawrence Marston.
New business.
Acceptance of the county program for 1941.
Presentation of financial budget.
Recognition of twenty-year members.
Presentation of pins by Wilson Conant, Buckfield, first county president.
Address, Raymond H. Lovejoy, Sanford.
Dinner.
"Home-made Character and Citizenship," Mary Sue Wigley, Dawson, Alabama.
Presentation of prizes and awards.
Program by 4-H club.
Election of officers.
Membership campaign report.

DANIEL G. FOSTER

Daniel G. Foster passed away at his home at East Bethel Friday evening, Oct. 18, 1940. He was born July 24, 1867, the fourth child of David T. and Harriet Crockett Foster. He married Nannette Abbott of Rumford and has always lived on the home place.

He was a charter member of Alder River Grange and was a member at the time of his death. He was a good neighbor and a friend to everyone.

Surviving, besides his wife, are six children, David, Albert, Grace and Natalie Foster and Mrs. Lawrence Crockett; four grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Hattie F. Thurston of Rumford Corner. Services were held at Greenleaf's parlors Monday afternoon and burial was in East Bethel cemetery.

REPUBLICAN BALL AND YOUNG REPUBLICAN SUPPER

Friday night, Oct. 25 bids fair to be a gala night for the Young Republicans of Oxford County. West Paris acts as host to the various groups of Young Republicans who will gather for supper at Good Will Hall at 6:30 p. m. After dinner speakers will include a state officer of the Young Republican Club and Norman U. Greenlaw, of Norway, now campaigning through Northern, Eastern and Central Maine, for the office of Secretary of State.

Following the after dinner speaking, a Republican Ball will be held at the West Paris gym. Music by Jan Grover's orchestra. The dance is a public affair for all liberty loving folks who wish to "shake a leg" in the pursuit of happiness the good old Republican way.

Local Committee
Wendall Ring, Harold Pullan, Leona Penley, Mary Perham, Ellis Ellingwood, Arthur Cummings.

Aides at Ball
Barbara Davenport, Dixfield; Paul Nevers, Norway; James Billings, Bryant Pond; Albert Ellsworth, Oxford; Lawrence Brown, N. Waterford; Gerard Williams, Bethel; Gilbert Stevens, So. Paris; Roy Hanson, Fryeburg.

SOUTH PARIS 13, GOULD 7

Gould Academy went down to its third straight defeat last Saturday in the same fashion it dropped the first two, by way of the air. This time it took two touchdowns passes to win as Gould showed strength in the opening period, scored a touchdown and converted the extra point to lead 7-0 through most of the first half.

The teams battled on even terms during most of the game but Paris had the punch to put across another pass with only a few minutes to go in the final period. Both teams made seven first downs. Paris tried seventeen passes completing eight and Gould made two good out of three attempts.

A meeting of the Woman's Republican Club will be held on Monday evening, Oct. 28th, at 7.30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Wm R. Chapman. All men and women who are interested in this very important election so near at hand are invited to be present. This is the last call and a large attendance is hoped for and expected. Items of special interest will be presented by capable speakers.

J. B. CHAPMAN TO REBUILD CENTRAL SERVICE STATION PROPERTY

Work started the first of this week in preparation for the construction of a 30x97 foot building on the site of the Central Service Station which has been owned and operated by Jesse B. Chapman the past 17 years. The present building will be razed and the new structure will be designed to house a bowling alley, pool room, heating plant and a 29x18 foot office.

The office will have four large plate glass windows and ample facilities for the display of tires and accessories. The entrance to the bowling alley and pool room will also be at the front of the building. The entire work will be of latest design.

Philip Wight of Norway will be the contractor in charge of construction, which will be started as soon as the ground is cleared.

LADIES CLUB ENJOYS TEA AT BETHAVEN

On Thursday, Oct. 17, Mrs. Henry Boyker opened her home, Bethaven, to the members of the Ladies Club and several guests.

The feature of the afternoon's program was a review of the new book, "Heredity and You," given most capably by Mrs. Philip Chadbourne.

Tea was served with Mrs. H. T. Wallace pouring and Mrs. P. S. Chapman, Miss Virginia Chapman and Mrs. Philip Chadbourne assisting the hostess.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

A Non-Partisan Editorial Review of the Events of Each Week, Illustrated

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of this newspaper.

THE WAR:
Boiling Balkans

Always a question mark in the intrigue of European politics, the Balkan states again are claiming their share of the world spotlight.

When Adolf Hitler's troops marched into Rumania to "protect" Rumanian oil fields and "train" Rumanian soldiers, military experts wondered what effect this would have on the attitude of Soviet Russia toward the axis powers. For Russia, too, is interested in Rumania. More than this Russia is vitally interested in any eastward expansion of the Hitler regime.

At first Berlin reported that Moscow knew and approved of this infiltration. Then news began to come in that the Soviet troops were on the march toward the Rumanian border. Two Rumanian patrol boats on the Danube were reported sunk by the Russians. In the strategic area around the mouth of the Danube both the German and Russian forces were reported to be speedily strengthening their military positions.

Just what Hitler's plans in the Balkans are remained, of course, a closely guarded military secret. There was much speculation centering around two possible motives in addition to the avowed aid in training Rumanian troops and the protection of the oil fields, so vital to the German war machine. These speculative motives were: (1) perhaps the axis powers were attempting to draw attention away from the British raids in order to launch some sort of a surprise tactic against England, or (2) Germany was using the Balkan route for a march to drive the British out of the eastern Mediterranean regions.

CAMPAIGN:
Home Stretch

As the 1940 campaign entered its final stages it continued to follow the outline established following the major party conventions. Willkie continued to make most of the speeches for his party and Henry Wallace was the busiest political speaker of the Democratic party.

Wallkie's speeches grew more vigorous as the campaign drew toward a close and Roosevelt's rare "political" appearances still presented the same pattern of 1932 and 1936.

Public opinion polls came in for their share of the praise and blame. When the Gallup poll showed that Candidate Roosevelt would more than likely carry the election, the Republicans countered with the Dunn survey, reputed to show Candidate Willkie out in front.

Reports from the Balkans indicate that Russian troops have massed on the Rumanian border and are keeping a watchful eye on the activities of Hitler's troops who have entered that country. This picture would bear out these facts for here is none other than that seldom photographed Deputy People's Commissar of Defense, Marshal S. Budenny (mustache), looking across the Russian border into Rumania from a Soviet observation post in the Odessa military district. Two army aides are shown with him.

BIG FOUR:
No Like?

There was increasing talk of a vast four-sided alliance between the British Empire, the United States, Soviet Russia and the China of General-Dictator Chiang Kai-shek. It was intended to thwart the axis of Germany, Italy and Japan. Thus would the world's seven big powers line up, it was stated by some railbirds.

The state department was undoubtedly wooing the Soviets, to counterbalance the rising sun of Nippon. Stalin liked the axis combine no better than did Roosevelt. It was true, objectors said, that British investments in the Far East were 10 times as large as those of the Yankees, and that the Far East was 7,000 miles away, and that we were scheduled to get out of the Philippines anyway, and many Americans did not like Moscow at any price.

Some of the British were pleased, but others were gravely worried. Some of them said that the more we pointed far eastward, the legs we could do for the British Isles in time of stress, strain and the beating hammer of Thor. Certain military men grumbled about quarreling on two fronts at the same time—a basic army axiom, anywhere, any time. It was all on the knees of the gods—yellow, red, and white, alike.

NAMES in the news . . .

Clare Booth, wife of Henry Luce, the Time Fortune publisher, and a playwright and author herself, spoke as follows in the presence of Mrs. Wendell Willkie: "When it is necessary Willkie would find it easier to lead us into the war, because people are not so sure of him." The Luce personality has been supporting Wendell, too.

Texas Jack Garner went to Washington. He went back to Texas. He was "elected" as ever. Said Texas Jack: "That's the way I came in, and that's the way I'm going out."

Princess Catherine Galatrine, a Russian girl of the daughter of Warfield Windsor, was killed in London, when a German bomb hit a bus in which she was riding.

The great old poet, Jan Padewski, nearly 80, got to Lisbon, Portugal, with his sister, 83. They had come in from Switzerland, on route to America. Then the great musician was president of ex-Poland. "Thank God," he cried, "my hands are still as strong as ever." He could not walk, unaided. He was a fine old man.

Some 34 American aviators formed a pro-British aerial squadron to help King George over London. It was composed of café society and circus clowns, and others. It contained Barbara Hutton's ex-husband, the golfist Bob Sweeney, once British amateur champion. It also contained William Edwin Gibson Taylor, 25, another Manhattan gladiator. W. E. G. T. will be in active command. The honorary chief was to be Col. Charles Sweeney, a foreign legionary in the first World War. The 34 eagles called themselves the Eagle squadron.

DEFENSE:
Registration

First step in national conscription was completed with the registration of some 10,500,000 young men between the ages of 21 and 36. Reporting to more than 120,000 polling places throughout the country they listed personal information about themselves and now await the results of the lottery in Washington which will decide in what order they may be called into service.

PLANES:
Estimates

According to one conservative British estimator, the Germans have lost close to 8,500 planes in the second world war. This is a whole of an estimate. The planes would be worth around half a billion dollars, which is a lot of money, and in marks is astronomical.

Not only that. There was more to it. The same estimator estimated that the Germans had lost 13,500 pilots. Pilots are much harder to replace than mere airplanes, be they Messerschmitts, Heinkels, Junkers, or Dorniers. It was figured that the Germans had lost three times as many bombers (Heinkels, Junkers) as they had fighters (Messerschmitts made in Augsburg). Most of these planes had Mercedes-Benz motors, built in the old Zeppelin works on Lake Constance, at Mannheim, and Stuttgart. The Mercedes plants have been badly bombed by the royal air force.

Germany was supposed to have an air force of approximately 20,000 planes and 25,000-30,000 pilots. The sensational British figures were probably too heavy, as is usual in aerial warfare.

'Kinder'

Germany might have lost those 6,500 and 13,500, but the Londoners didn't take it to heart. The London county council advised all mothers, in its complete 29 areas, to evacuate themselves and their children in toto. In addition, everybody of 65 or over, and the infirm of body, were told to get out and stay out. These provisions had previously been applied only to the 14 worst local areas, and the spread over 1 to 29, made the whole matter "totalitarian." Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald, son of the late-lamented famous Ramsay, was in charge of the woman-child aged infirm trek to the sticks.

ITALY:
Indifferent

Virginia Gayda, Mussolini's journalist stage at Rome, denied that the so-called Axis was out to defeat Mr. Roosevelt. Gayda said that Italy was indifferent. Just the same, Italy was touchy. The local authorities ordered the expulsion of the famous Herbert Matthews, New York Times correspondent, because "he falsely stated that Italy and the Axis would interfere in the United States' presidential election." The Romans claimed that Signor Matthews tended to disturb relations between Italia and Columbia.

Signor Matthews knows all about pauper Italy-at-war. He was in the Ethiopian war, as a correspondent, and also in the Spanish civil strife, where Italians were rife. He is considered tops, professionally, as well as honest and objective, plus a conscience. He wrote an exceedingly good book on Spain & Ethiopia.

PROPAGANDA: Is It Smart?

The British aerial propaganda over Germany continued. It took a threatening tone. The British leaflets warned that "the Americans were coming into the war." They warned, too, that the British would yet bomb Germany even harder than the Germans were then bombing England. The leaflets told of the inexhaustible sources of the British empire, etc., etc.

This was an entirely different type of propaganda from that the British used, along with their allies, in the first World War. In 1914-18, the German propaganda took a blood-and-thunder tone, while the Allied ditto was mild, humane, and "kindly." Hitler greatly admired the Allied propaganda methods of those days, and has tried to incorporate them into his 1939-40 usage. It was feared that the present British method would simply stiffen the German resistance. It was feared, too, that discontented German liberals might rally to the fuhrer (from panic), and that the plain German people would stand up for their homes, hearths, lars, and penates. Critics wondered whether the allies and Germans had reversed their original propaganda methods. Propaganda, to be successful, they muttered, requires rare patience and tact.

BERMUDA:
Sidelight

There was a curious little appeal from New York out of Bermuda. It was just this. The retreat at Dunkirk was covered by two heroic Highlander regiments—the Black Watch and the Camerons. (Other Highland outfits are the Gordons, the Seaforth, the Argyll & Sutherland. They all date back close to 266 years.)

Some 260 of the shattered Camerons were sent to Bermuda for recuperation. Most of them were wounded, and had been decorated. Many were under 20 years of age. Their pay was only $3.75 per week and they couldn't afford to sight-see in carriages, or travel by train.

So an appeal went out from New York for old bicycles, that these boy-vets could get around and have some fun. The appeal aroused considerable interest. The committee was ready to collect and dispatch the bikes free of charge.

STYLES:
Anti-papal?

The pope addressed 10,000 Italian young women. He objected vigorously to up-to-date fashions and cosmetics. He also warned against bad novels (some say they're all bad nowadays), plays, movies, and amusement "hotspots."

Said the pope: "You should ask your conscience before putting on a frock, how Jesus Christ would judge it." He also spoke for peace, and repair of the fruitless devastation of the late-lamented past year. The Vatican showed anxiety lest England and America start warring atheist Russia, as a counter-weight to Musso-Mikado-Hitler. World Catholicism still regards Stalin as the No. 1 foe, and perhaps not without reason. But Earl Browder, the bad redboy, had another viewpoint altogether, for he suggested a triple Chinese-Russian-American alliance—to "win through, out of the present dangers and chaos."

MISCELLANY:

One hundred fifty years, eight months and five days after the first U. S. Supreme court assembled in New York city to begin the writing of U. S. judicial history, the nine present justices of that body gathered in Washington for the first session of the 1940-41 term.

Axis diplomacy was read into the Italian honor which was extended to Spain's General Franco, whereby he was made a "cousin of the king." He was decorated with the Collar of the Supreme Order of Santissima Annunziata.

A serious New York truck strike was averted, when after a 36-hour walkout, drivers and employers agreed upon terms proposed by Mayor LaGuardia.

In Cuba, 38-year-old Fulgencio Batista was inaugurated as president of that country.

Princess Elizabeth Alexandria Mary, elder daughter of King George of England, broadcast an international radio message to all the children of the British empire in which she appealed to them to be brave and have courage during these "days of trouble."

Allens who came to the United States to work in the international exhibits of the World's fair face serious problems with closing of the event. Most of them are in the United States on temporary permits that expire 30 days after the fair's closing. Since opening day many nations have disappeared from the map or conditions at home are such that persons now here might not be "welcome." To help solve these problems a bill has been introduced into the house to allow these persons to remain in the U. S. if unable "to return at this time."

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of "Free Frenchmen," landed and was welcomed at the West African port of Duala. This city, capital of the Camerons (a German possession until after the war of 1914-18) was ready to receive the man who had failed to land his forces at Dakar, two weeks earlier, because the natives had decided to continue the fight against Adolf Hitler, even after the French capitulation at home.

Smuggled Refugee

HOBOKEN, N. J.—Franz Werfel, refugee author, is pictured aboard the Greek liner "Nea Hellas" as it arrived in this U. S. port recently. He was sneaked out of France via "underground railway" methods. Werfel is the author of "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh" and 35 other volumes.

World Bristles With War Talk As America Arms for Defense

U. S. Trains Conscript Army and Prepares for Action;
Germany, Italy, Japan Present Solid Front, Assume Militant Attitude.

By BAUKHAGE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
Baukhage, NBC Commentator, whose voice on the Farm and Home Hour is heard daily by many of our readers, is the author of the following Washington column. Soldier, writer and broadcaster, for the last quarter of a century, Baukhage has covered foreign and domestic news from all parts of the United States and principal capitals of Europe.

WASHINGTON.—It is just about as far from the executive offices of the White House on Pennsylvania avenue to the broadcasting studio as it was from our house on Spruce street back home to the store where my mother used to send me for a loaf of bread (and a stick of "lickish" if I had an extra penny). It was on my way to the store one day that I first saw a live man wearing the uniform of the United States. It was my Cousin Ned just starting off for the Spanish-American war in his sailor suit.

I've seen a lot of uniforms since, on the avenue in Washington, too, but I couldn't help thinking as I walked along the other day scuffling the dried leaves that had fallen from the immortal White House elms, that a lot of nine-year-old kids and older ones, too, are soon going to be seeing plenty of uniforms for the first time, on the streets of the home town, just the way I did, 40 years ago.

Right now that is something that Washington and every other city, town and cross roads in the country have in common. In the corridors of the marble buildings beside the Potomac they are talking about the same thing that they are on Main street and at the general store. I wouldn't be surprised if certain gentlemen in certain foreign capitals were talking about the same thing, too: Our new citizen army.

Need for Conscript Army in Peacetime

There are certain things about conscription that people are thinking about. According to a lot of letters I get, what many people want to know is why we need a citizen army in peacetime.

I put that up to a military man and this is the way he answered me: "Speed is what counts in an army today. We aren't calling out these boys to fight anybody. We are calling them now to train them so they'll be ready if we ever need them. The United States can always raise a big army if war is ever declared. But neither we nor any other country can raise a trained army over night and a lot can happen in the night these days. What we want to do is train men for a reserve."

"If this war ends and a disarmament agreement is reached with all nations we won't need to train anybody any more. Meanwhile these men when they are through their year's service will go home and slip back into their niches in civilian life. But if a war comes they can step into the ranks over night as they would if we were in danger anyhow. But they will step back as trained soldiers, not raw recruits."

That seemed to me a new way of looking at it. It explains why there is a need now. A fire engine wouldn't be much use if you had to teach the firemen how to use it after the house started burning.

Triple Alliance Powers Have Belligerent Attitude

Is our house actually in danger of catching on fire now?

Well, I am a reporter, not a prophet. The profit motive isn't overemphasized in the reporting business. Furthermore right now the air in these parts is so full of political speeches and other war-talk, just as it is out your way, that you can hardly see across the Potomac on a clear day. The political speeches are so belligerent and the war-talk, especially what we are getting from Rome, Berlin and Tokyo is so political, it takes a fine-tooth comb to separate them.

A dispatch from Rome says the axis doesn't want to get us into war and wants to stop our aid to Britain.

Berlin says that if we attack Japan, Germany and Italy will attack us. That would get us into the war which Rome says the axis doesn't want.

Tokyo says that if we don't let her do what she wants in Asia, Japan will attack us.

Certain people in Washington say if we get into war with Japan we can't help Britain. And so it goes.

Washington Emphasizes Defense, Not Offense

Just now Washington isn't as war-like as it sounds. The emphasis is on defense, not offense. However, there are conflicting views as to what we ought to do.

I talked with an official who isn't what you would call a fire-eater. He expressed a view which some of the people in the state department agree with.

"Japan has declared herself our enemy. The time to strike is now, not delay the way Great Britain did. We could get it over without a long war."

Another man who speaks for another group which is supposed to reflect White House opinion, said this:

"The United States has to play a cautious game. Our job now is to keep out of war. Aid Britain all we can. As long as the British navy controls the seas Japan can't hurt us."

If that policy is followed, and I think most observers here believe it will be no matter who is elected President, we will simply reply to any further unfriendly moves on the part of Japan by economic measures. We have cut off some of her vital needs. We can cut off more.

French Ambassador Has Hard Job

It is hard to find out whether you are at war and if so, with whom, these days. Of course, we are at peace with France. At least we recognize the French ambassador, the suave and amiable Henri Haye.

He has a very hard job because, as everybody knows, the government of Vichy has about the same relationship to the French people as French perfume has to a piece of Limburger cheese. The dachshund's tail wags the French poodle.

And the United States government, which can't admit officially that this is true, acts just as if it knew it all the time. It has frozen French financial holdings in this country. It is as hard for the French government to draw on funds invested here as it is for a Hollander or a Belgian or the citizen of the other occupied countries to get their money—which doesn't make them angry either. Some Hollanders instructed their agents here not to pay out their funds to anybody even if they themselves write letters ordering this done. For, of course, the Nazis could force the owner to order the securities sold and then confiscate the funds and use it themselves.

Well, one of the many ticklish assignments of Monsieur Henri Haye is to try to get the government to loosen up on those French investments. Of course, some funds can be drawn upon for special purposes such as the expenses of the embassy. And there has been a worried rumor that the United States government might have to turn the entire amount over.

Predict Balanced Budget for 1943

With congress and the defense commission bent on seeing that the money appropriated for national defense gets put to work, all the talk is about what's going out and very little about what's coming in. You haven't heard a thing about balancing the budget recently, have you? Well, you will soon. Perhaps before this item meets your eye. For the experts say that we are going to have a $15,000,000,000 budget in 1943 and what is more we are going to be able to balance it.

How will this feat be accomplished?

Simply through normal taxes, they tell us. Production and national income will mount so fast owing to pyramiding defense expenditures that normal taxes will bring in enough money to get the dizzy old budget.

This statement comes, not from starchy-eyed optimists but from fishy-eyed financial experts who are paid to get the low-down for their no-less fishy-eyed banker clients.

The Oak Still Stands

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ACTORS usually dread working with children on the stage or in pictures because children, like animals, invariably "steal" scenes. One cut gesture, one little smile from a child can make an Academy Award winner look like a piece of furniture, so far as audiences are concerned.

Nevertheless the members of the cast of "Shepherd of the Hills" were delighted to have four-year-old Virita Campbell in their midst while they were on location in the San Bernardino mountains. On location hours are usually very long, the rule being to shoot from daybreak to sunset to take full advantage of the natural light. Which means that actors, stars and all, get up at 5:30 or thereabouts.

But in the eyes of the state labor law Virita is an infant, so she can't start to work until 8 a. m. Consequently the actors who worked with her got two extra hours of sleep every morning. They brought pressure to bear on Director Henry Hathaway to extend her part so that it would last for the entire six weeks.

Deanna Durbin's new picture, "Spring Parade," is a honey, chiefly because she, S. Z. Sakall and Henry Stephenson are in it. The story is just another of those Old Virginia things, but Henry Foster did a good job of directing, the entire cast, it includes Allen Joslyn, Reginald Denny, Robert Cummings and Franklin Pangborn is good, and there are some lovely new songs. The grown-up Deanna is charming and sings beautifully, of course—and as the setting is what old Virginia always is in the movies, she sang an arrangement of the "Blue Danube."

Practically all the new stars in Hollywood were fired from perfectly good jobs before they turned to the movies. Preston Foster suspects that Nelson Eddy got the one he lost. Foster was working on a Philadelphia newspaper, selling classified advertising. He got extra jobs singing in the chorus and in minor roles in the La Scala Opera company. One day the boss dropped in at a matinee, and there was Foster singing when he should have been out selling advertising.

Meanwhile Nelson Eddy was working as a shipping clerk for an iron works company in the same city. He had a habit of bursting into song when he was working hard. The foreman couldn't stand it, so he fired the singer, who promptly got a job on the Philadelphia paper that hadn't appreciated Foster's singing—the job was selling classified advertising.

Robert Taylor was washing the inside of a windshield in a service station in Beatrice, Neb., when the rag slipped out of his hand and into the lap of a lady. He fled, not waiting to be fired.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Open Porch Construction.

QUESTION: I want to build an open porch over an enclosed sun porch. It opens out from a bedroom which has three windows facing south. The three windows are set in one opening. What should be the construction of the flooring; material, pitch and drainage? Which window should be made into the door? Should I provide a storm door for winter?

Answer: The covering on a roof that is to be walked on can be of a prepared canvas, made especially for the purpose. The minimum pitch of the roof should be a quarter-inch to the foot. The surface and framing should be of rigid construction. The canvas should be laid over a No. 2 common flooring of pine, fir or spruce, 3/4-inch thick; not over four inches wide, and must be tongue-and-groove. It should be smooth, with joints planed if necessary. The canvas should be turned up or flashed four to six inches at the walls to insure water-tightness. The middle window is the one to be made into a door. You should by all means put on a storm door for the winter, and also provide good weather-stripping.

Squeaking Stairs.
Question: Stairs from my entrance hall creak and groan. Stairs are straight ascending in one unbroken line. How can I cure the horrid noises that accompany each footfall?

Answer: That squeaking is from the springing or arching of the treads away from the risers. If the under side of the stairs is open, tighten the wedges that secure the ends of the treads in the grooves of the side pieces; drive them in with a hammer. Otherwise, standing on a tread to weight it down, drive two-inch finishing nails through the tread near the front edge, so that they go into the riser. Nails should be driven in pairs at opposite angles. Sink the heads below the surface with a nailset and fill the holes with wood putty.

Refinishing a House.
Question: The walls of my stucco house are cracked in several places, and I am anxious to refinish the walls. I am considering brick veneer, asbestos siding or wood siding. Which of the three would you advise? Is it possible to refinish the walls without tearing down the stucco?

Answer: All three materials are very satisfactory as wall coverings. The first two, of course, will require little or no maintenance. As to the choice between the brick and siding, a great deal depends on the style of the house. If you select brick veneering, the present stucco would not have to be removed, but for the siding it would be better to remove the stucco.

Outdoor Fireplaces.
Question: How can I build a small outdoor fireplace? I have a cabin in the country, and we are anxious to cook steak in the open. Where can I get information on making one?

Answer: Popular Science Monthly, 353 Fourth avenue, New York city, has information on this; illustrations and directions. For information on making cement, apply to the Portland Cement association, 347 Madison avenue, New York city, or to the Chicago office at 33 West Grand avenue. The association has published an excellent pamphlet called "Concrete Improvements Around the Home."

Waterproofing Brick Wall.
Question: What can I use to waterproof the outside of a brick wall? My neighbor does not want me to use black because it faces her yard. Black seems to be the cheapest waterproofing.

Answer: A cement composition paint is very satisfactory, providing the bricks have not been previously painted with an oil or asphalt paint. A black asphalt paint, of course, does not help the appearance of the wall.

Open Giant Boulder Dam Outlet Valves

A huge man-made waterfall is shown spurting from the 11 tremendous outlet valves of the Boulder dam, in Nevada, creating a waterfall higher than Niagara. When engineers opened the valves, they sent 30,000,000 gallons of water plunging into the mighty Colorado river. Twenty thousand tourists were there.

Where Nine School Children Died

Nine school children died here in a fire which destroyed a mission school in Breathitt county, in the hills a little distance from Jackson, Ky. The school, known as "Little Mission," was maintained by the missionaries and was undenominational. The children who died were in their beds on the second floor when the fire started.

Alien Finds Registration Perplexing

John DeLeonardo, Boston, is an alien. He conforms to the law. The law says aliens must register, so John takes his blank at the Boston post office and sets about answering the questions asked of him. The camera caught him in a moment of perplexed concentration. Puzzled? Maybe he's wondering why he never took out citizenship papers.

ner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual.

lems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

It was inevitable that the recent meeting between Hitler and Mussolini at Brenner Pass should have been immediately followed by reports that the Axis has completed plans for invading England this fall or winter, bad weather notwithstanding. To some neutral military experts, this is almost incredible—it would involve the greatest and most far-reaching risks that Hitler has as yet taken.
Despite that, however, there is at least one sound reason for believing that the reports may prove true. That reason is two-fold; famine and disease, two of the most deadly of the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse.

No one knows exactly how serious the food situation is in Hitler-occupied Europe. But it is known that the conquered countries have been systematically gutted of their food reserves, in order that the German Army and the German people can be fed.
The fine dairy herds of Denmark, products of centuries of development, have been slaughtered for beef. Already the people of Holland, Belgium, France and elsewhere have felt the pinch, as basic foods, notably fats, become more scarce. Germany, because of her seizures, is better off than most, but even there the people exist on a bare subsistence basis.

Great wars have always brought the threat of famine, and sometimes the actuality. But it is a reasonable supposition that this war, different as it is from its predecessors in so many ways, may be the precursor of greater hunger than the modern world has known. In the past, nations when embarking on the great adventure that is war, have usually been fat, prosperous, well-fed. But the Germans, long before war began last September, were living on short rations. And the wars of the past were usually fought by professional armies, at least at the beginning, and military life was but one phase of the life of the nation. In the present case, Germany, and to a lesser extent Italy, have been following a war economy for many years—everything, men and material alike, has been dedicated to preparing for conflict. Production of food has necessarily been held to the lowest possible minimum—substitutes of little nutritional value have long been employed. It is not unnatural that serious diseases have been growing in both number and intensity for many moons in Germany and Italy.

Disease, of course, is the ever-present ally of famine and disease, once it gets the upper hand, becomes plague. Plague, according to the international grapevine that mythologically brings news past the iron-clad European censorship, has already come to Poland. And plague respects no boundaries. The lack of soap in Europe is a factor here. It provides the finest possible breeding place for any kind of disease.

Europe has never been completely self-contained. It must import.
Today there is almost no commerce between the old world and the new, save for that which is controlled by Britain. The British fleet is carrying on the blockade effectively, and is prepared to extend it as far, for example, to Spain if necessary. If Britain were to fall the great Axis merchant marine could again go to the four corners of the world, to come home laden with all that the people of Europe now lack so long as Britain survives, the Axis will be able to obtain almost nothing outside the gutted land it dominates. If Hitler does attempt an "all-out" blow against England soon, this will be one of the principal reasons for it.

There are some who believe that the possibility of famine points to the way that the dictator's grip on Europe may finally be loosened. A hungry people, they reason, will revolt against their masters—there is little choice between suicide and starvation. But there is another side to this. As Alan Gregg writes in the Yale Review, "There are varieties of starvation. Reduce abruptly all forms of food after an adequate diet, and you will still be strong enough to riot for food; gradually reduce to zero some essential of your diet, and you will finally be too weakened to protest with energy." So famine in captured nations might actually play into Hitler's hands by lessening the ability of the conquered peoples to effectively protest.

It is not expected that there will be widespread famine this winter. It is considered almost a certainty that it will come in grave form next winter, however, if the war is still going on then, and Britannia still rules the waves. Few experts dare anticipate what Europe will be like if the war lasts four or five years, as some military authorities think it may. The peoples would be literally decimated victims of war who never saw a battle, and never heard the wall of a bullet.

Some in this country would help the conquered peoples with food and other necessities. But Britain has so far refused to pass relief ships through the blockade, on the very reasonable theory that the dictators would size their cargoes once they were delivered.
Europe will not get much help from us.

BRANCH SCHOOL, NEWRY

GOULD ACADEMY . . .

Last Thursday the Stanley-Dana Corporation of Portland demonstrated the Victor Talking-Moving machine before the entire school, our regular assembly period.

As a demonstration film, "The Middleton Family at the New York World's Fair," five reels of technicolor, was used. The story concerned a typical American family at the World's Fair, and brought out well the advantages of capitalistic society over that of the other "isms." It also showed many of the new inventions that have been developed, giving young men greater opportunities than existed a few years ago.

In the near future there will be a demonstration of the Bell-Howell equipment. It is expected that the Academy will purchase sound equipment in the near future and these demonstrations are given with that in mind.

In line with our policy to make athletics available for all, the Junior Varsity played Gorham High School Monday afternoon, resulting in a scoreless tie.

Saturday night Principal and Mrs. Ireland entertained sixteen boys and girls at an informal party at the Principal's home.

The dormitory councils are taking seriously the work before them. The boys are grading themselves in their dormitory deportment, this being a self analysis rather than a job for the faculty as has been done in the past. The administration feels that this is good training for the boys and also a fair estimate of the boys' real characteristics. All of these tests and measurements are being brought to them under our guidance, and is being carefully developed under the direction of Mr. Vachon.

Flower Basket Quilt One of Rare Beauty

Transfer No. Z762

THE Flower Basket quilt is one of the most beautiful and versatile designs you could imagine. Parts of the flowers may be applied and the rest done in outline, or if you desire, the flowers may be done entirely in embroidery.

The transfer, Z762, 15c, gives you the cutting pattern for the pieced baskets, as well as 20 different flower motifs which fit in these baskets. You will find many more uses for these flowers, too, as they are ideal for luncheon cloths, curtains and other linens. A quilting design also comes on this transfer. Send order to:

Jumper and Blouse Outfit With Bolero

1222-B

FOR all school-girls, in the grades and on up through college, the jumper-with-bolero outfit is the very best and most popular of classroom fashions. Every smart shop shows it. Every smart girl wants it. Here it is in a design (No. 1222-B) that can be quickly and economically made at home — with dart-fitted waistline, stitching for trim, and a very youthful, sufficient tailored blouse.

Add the bolero to it, and make a little suit! Several blouses and one jumper and bolero go a long way toward outfitting any girl for school, and giving her the variety she craves. Corduroy, velveteen and flannel are smart for the jumper and bolero; linen, flat crepe or batiste for the blouse.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1222-B is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material without nap for bolero and jumper; 1 1/4 yards 36-inch material for the blouse. Send order to:

Newest Hats Made Of Pasted Feathers

It is a season of gayest of gay plumage and novelty feathers. So much so, the newest hats of the season are made entirely of pasted feathers in gorgeous colors. With the new dark furs they are simply stunning. Your feather chapeau may be of the now-so-ehle broad brim type or it may be a cunning little novel shape or a close fitting turban. Just so it's feathered to distinction.

Felt casual hats flaunt spectacular quills and other feather novelties. New too are the felt brotons as well as those of velvet that have a fringe of brilliant feathers outlining the brim.

FARMER BROWN'S BOY TAKES GREAT PAINS

OLD MAN COYOTE was a stranger to Farmer Brown's Boy. Ever since he had come to the Green Meadows to live he had been very careful that Farmer Brown's Boy should never see him. So he knew all about Farmer Brown's Boy, for from safe hiding places he had watched him day after day. Farmer Brown's Boy knew very little about Old Man Coyote, and what he did know was what he had read. He wouldn't even have known that Old Man Coyote was living on the Green Meadows but for the sound of his voice. Now he had found Old Man Coyote's home and he fully intended that Old Man Coyote should howl no more. So he set traps all about Old Man Coyote's home, and

With that Farmer Brown's Boy, with Bowser at his heels, started for home.

In doing it he took the greatest pains.

"I've heard that he has a very wonderful nose," said Farmer Brown's Boy, talking to Bowser the Hound, who sat watching him, "such a wonderful nose that if I should touch one of these traps with my bare hands he would be able to smell me and so be warned. You've got a pretty good nose yourself, Bowser, but it isn't in it with Old Man Coyote's. So you see I've smoked the traps and I've smoked the gloves I am wearing, and I don't see how he is going to smell me, do you?"

Now Old Man Coyote had three doorways to his home, and in each of these Farmer Brown's Boy set a trap, a cruel steel trap with wide-spread jaws to seize Old Man Coyote by a leg. To each trap was attached a chain, and the end of the chain was fastened to a heavy stick of wood. The sticks of wood Farmer Brown's Boy buried just under the surface of the ground, and he sifted the sand and dust over the chains and traps themselves so that they could not be seen. When he was through you never would have guessed that there was anything there. Then just as carefully he set more traps in the little paths by which Old Man Coyote was in the habit of going from and coming to his home.

"Now, Bowser, you'll have to stay away from here or you'll be getting caught your ownself," said he as he looked at his completed work with a satisfied air.

"I guess that will get him," he continued. "It seems kind of mean to put traps right in his doorways and not give him any chance at all. I don't like to do it, Bowser. No, sir, I don't like to do it. I wouldn't if it wasn't for these ducks and chickens. I just can't afford to raise 'em for a good-for-nothing wolf. If he had known enough to leave them alone I wouldn't have had to do this. You understand, Bowser, I'm not trapping him for fun, but because we've got to get rid of him. Now I think we'll go home and tomorrow morning we'll find him caught fast and waiting for a bullet to end his mischief making. Just you take warning, Bowser, and keep out of trouble."

With that Farmer Brown's Boy, with Bowser at his heels, started for home, leaving the far corner of the Green Meadows, where Old Man Coyote's house was, as quiet and peaceful seeming as if such dreadful things as traps and guns never had been invented. And high overhead in the blue, blue sky Old Mistah Buzzard looked down with anxious eyes and tried in vain to think of some way to warn Old Man Coyote, for he had seen all that had been done. But he couldn't think of any way, and so he sailed round and round and round, watching to see what would happen.

Fashion-Wise Use Bright, Gay Colors

This is developing into a season of gorgeously gay colors. The tweeds for coats and suits were never so strikingly colorful. Plaids have gone on a rampage of color. Feathers on hats flaunt color to the limit. Accessories are a riot of eye-blinding color.

In costume design a play on color is being made that is startling in effect, but the bold handling of contrast colors is one of the most fascinating gestures fashion records this season. For example, it is chic for a dress to have a neutral colored shirtwaist top, with a skirt which introduces panels of vivid colors. Such a dress could be made of pale beige with sections of scarlet, Irish green and royal blue.

The new black frocks achieve their dash of color with yokes, vests or front panel effects made up of green, cerise and purple crepe. Dare as much color as you please and you will be none too colorful this season.

Four-Piece Suit

An absorbing theme with designers is "clothes" for the teen-age. There is apparently nothing left that should be done to cater successfully to the fashion needs and caprices of the younger generation. The underlying thought that controls apparel design for youth in these modern times is to devise outfits that can be manipulated to serve for many-purpose wear. They have interchangeable parts or reversibles, in and out "zippered" linings and countless other ingenious contrivances that contribute to efficiency. Plaid is everywhere in the fashion picture. This four-piece suit has a reversible hat and jacket — the other side is red corduroy.

SOUR NOTE

"Doctor, I feel as fit as a fiddle."
"H'm! You look more like a saxophone."

Prima Donna

"It was the sweetest hat," gushed Mrs. Penn, "and when the milliner told me I could have it for a mere song I ordered it at once." Mr. Penn said nothing until he saw the bill. Then he spoke. "A case of mistaken identity," he said, "quietly. 'The woman evidently thought you were a famous singer.'"

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. (Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.) There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Household News

Halloween provides a good excuse for an unusual party. The theme you may select should be the basis around which the party is built. "Black Magic Party," "The Haunted House," "Buried Treasure Hunt," "The Witches' Rendezvous," "The Ghosts Gambol" are all suggestive names for the party you may be planning for All Hallows' eve.

A Halloween party without decorations just isn't a party. They may be so simple that it takes very little time to put them up; pumpkins, cornstalks, and lighted jack-o'-lanterns. Or you may decorate with witches, owls, black and orange crepe paper streamers, black and gray crepe paper moss dripping from the ceilings, or ghosts standing in spooky corners with eerie lights thrown upon them.

In keeping with Halloween we must not forget the traditional games and pranks. The chamber of horrors, with clanking chains, damp hands clutching the guests, and dark tunnels should put the guests into the spirit of the party. Bobbing for apples, fortune telling and guessing games are all old favorites. These suggestions may bring to your mind others that may be old-time Halloween games.

Orange Sauce.

1 tablespoon cornstarch mixed with 1 tablespoon cold water
5 tablespoons sugar
5 tablespoons hot water
5 tablespoons orange juice
½ teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon butter

Make a paste of the cornstarch and cold water. Add sugar and hot water and cook for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Add fruit juices and butter.

Halloween Ice Cream Clowns.

Place a ball of ice cream on a butter cookie and use raisins, tiny gumdrops or candied cherries to make the eyes, nose, and mouth in the ice cream. Place an ice cream cone upside down on the ice cream for a cap, and place a tuft of whipped cream on the cookie around the clown's neck.

Pumpkin Ice Cream.

(Makes 1 quart)
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
Pinch of salt
1 cup coffee cream
2 egg yolks (beaten)
¾ cup pumpkin (canned)
½ teaspoon orange rind (grated)
½ cup pecan meats
½ cup whipping cream

Combine the sugar, cinnamon, ginger and salt. Mix well. Add the cream slowly and could over boiling water. Mix beaten egg yolks and pumpkin, and add to the cream mixture with the orange rind. Return to heat, and cook for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Chill, fold in the nuts and the whipped cream, and pour into the freezing container of an ice cream freezer, filling it not more than ¾ full. Assemble and cover the freezer. Surround with a mixture of 3 parts of crushed ice to 1 part rock salt. Next turn the crank slowly and steadily until turning becomes difficult. When the mixture is frozen, carefully remove the dasher and pack down the cream with a spoon. Replace the cover, draw off the water, and replenish the ice and salt. Let stand for an hour.

Goblin's Dessert.

(Serves 4 to 5)
2 eggs (separated)
7 tablespoons sugar

1 tablespoon butter (melted)
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup orange juice
1¼ cups stale bread (cut in pieces)

Beat egg yolks until very light, and gradually beat in the sugar. Add butter, salt and orange juice. Pour over the cubed bread. Beat egg whites until stiff, and fold into the first mixture. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake in a moderately slow oven (325 degrees) for about 30 minutes.

Ginger Snap Pie Crust.

(Makes 2 crusts)

Make 3 cups ginger snap crumbs by rolling ginger snaps on bread board or crumbling through food chopper. Combine with ¾ cup melted butter and blend lightly. Then press mixture into pie plate, shaping firmly all around, and place in refrigerator to chill until firm.

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie.

(Makes 2 pies)

3 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup cold water
6 eggs
2 cups sugar
2½ cups strained pumpkin
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
1 cup whipping cream

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes. Separate eggs and beat egg yolks. Then combine 1 cup of the sugar, the strained pumpkin, milk, salt, and spices with the egg yolks and cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from fire, add gelatin, and stir until dissolved. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, stir in the remaining cup of sugar and fold in the beaten egg whites. Pour filling in the chilled ginger snap pastry shells and chill in refrigerator until set. Before serving decorate pies with whipped cream faces, using chilled pastry tube.

THE newest frilled curtains give a full, lavish effect. If they make your old curtains look a bit dejected, like those shown here at the right, don't be discouraged. The window at the left uses those same curtains with a dash of glamour added. This economy trick saved a certain young matron enough money to buy a number of smart new accessories for her living room.

She discovered that a diagonal dart, which took up the curtains at the back, threw more fullness to the front, thus giving the new high drape a smart line. Tie-backs and valance were made of flowered chintz in rose and plum tones, lined with plain plum colored chintz. One yard of each kind of chintz was required for each window.

NOTE: The chintz covered lamp shade and the spool table also add interest to
